Man sentenced for shooting of ex-wife's boyfriend

Jermaine Jackson convicted and sentenced for January 2017 Attempted Murder

(Indianapolis, Ind.) Marion County Prosecutor Terry Curry announced today that Jermaine Jackson has been convicted and sentenced to 35 years in the Indiana Department of Correction for a January, 2017, shooting of his ex-wife's boyfriend outside of his residence located in the 2700 block of N. Graham Avenue. Jackson was found guilty at a jury trial of Attempted Murder (Level 1 Felony), Carrying a Handgun without a License, (Class A Misdemeanor) and three counts of Criminal Recklessness, (Level 6 Felony).

On January 20, 2017, Jackson ran up to a parked minivan and fired multiple shots at close range into the driver's side window striking the driver, his ex-wife's new boyfriend, multiple times. Jackson's ex-wife and three young children, including two that Jackson had in common with his ex-wife, sat in the back of the minivan and were not injured. Jackson ran off. Jackson's ex-wife then immediately drove her boyfriend to Community East Hospital. He was treated for multiple gunshot wounds and survived the injuries. Jermaine Jackson was then located and arrested January 30, 2017, in the Chicago area.
